

Scofield | Christian School

PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

Scofield Christian School has a primary mission to impact students for Christ, so they will, in turn, impact their homes, churches and communities. Our goal is to equip academically prepared, biblically literate students to take their place in today's changing society. We believe in the inspiration and inerrancy of the Bible. As God's Word, we believe it to be true and trustworthy; therefore, we believe that it deserves a place in education and in the classroom, regardless of the subject matter taught. It is also an infallible guide to righteous, ethical and moral judgments.

Based upon the fact that human beings bear the image of God, we are dedicated to the proposition that every student is worthy of individual time, effort and prayer to the end that each one becomes a mature Christian and responsible citizen. Each student is encouraged to respond to the God's invitation to receive personal salvation by faith in Jesus Christ and is encouraged to develop biblical convictions with respect to every aspect of life.

We believe it is desirable that the student body should contain a cross section of society racially, socially and economically; and that it should be limited in size so that a sense of community can be established and maintained. We further believe that the school should be of special service to parents who share our concern for each person's relationship to God.

We believe that our curriculum should be governed largely by the word "excellence." Consequently, we have chosen to be accredited with the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI) and comply with its standards in regard to curriculum, student assessment, and promotion. We welcome its objective evaluation of our staff and academic program in order to ensure the excellence of our Christian instructional environment.
